

Resources for Genealogists at Canadian Archives

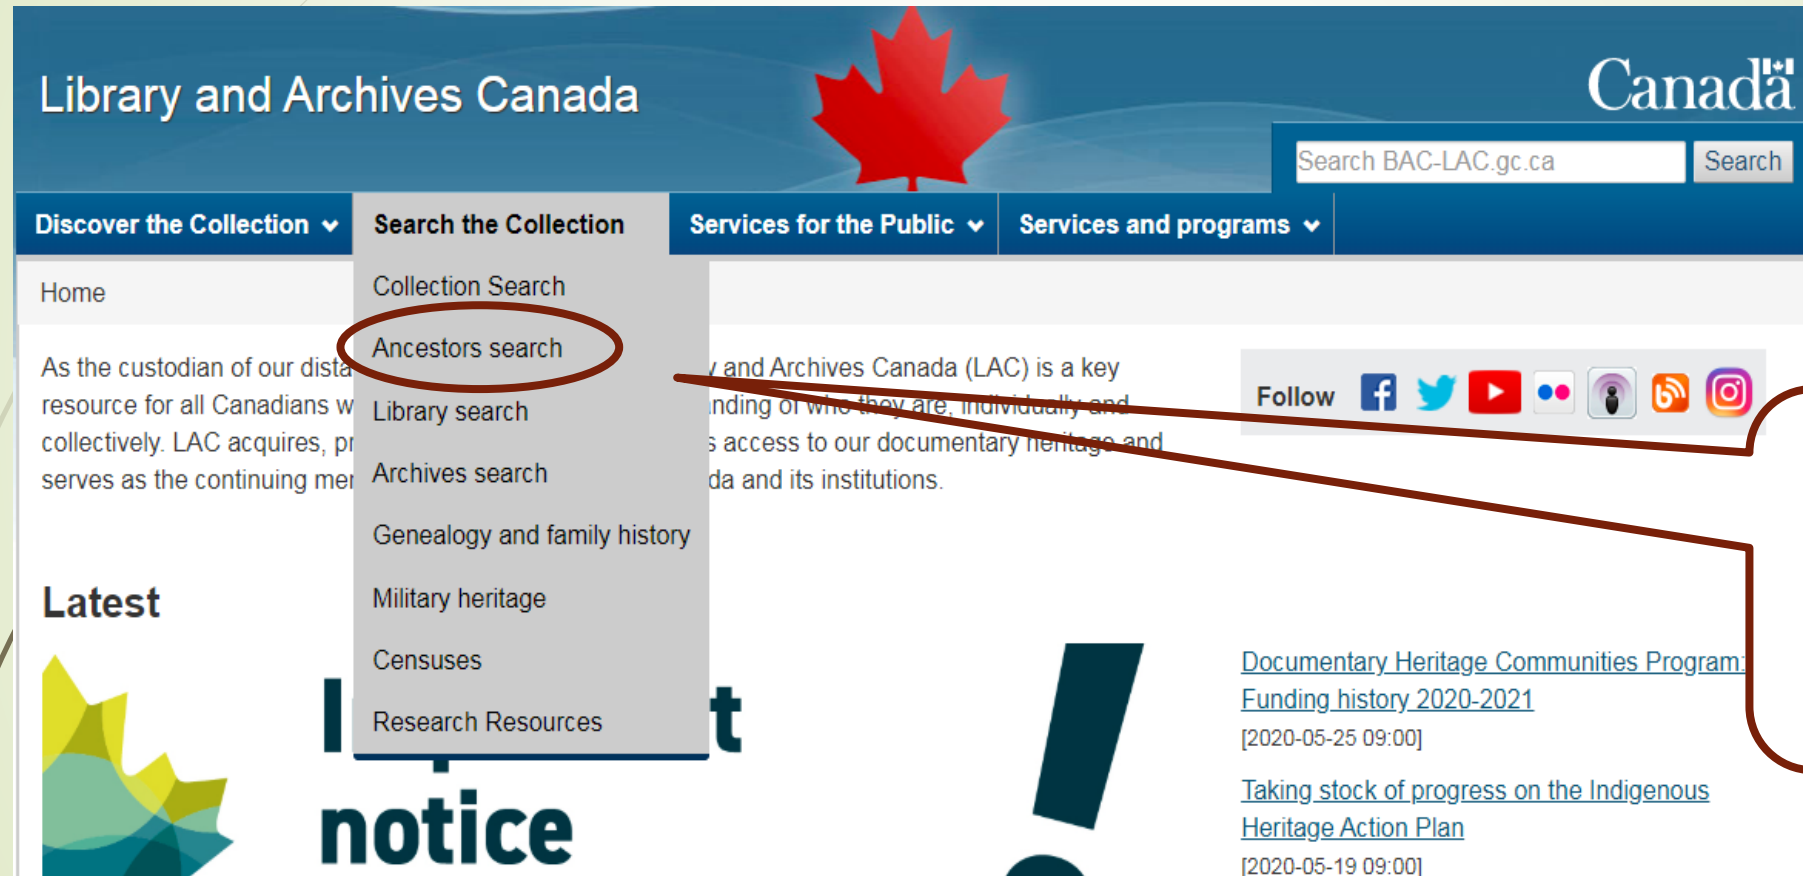

Library and Archives Canada

“As the custodian of our distant past and recent history, Library and Archives Canada (LAC) is a key resource for all Canadians who wish to gain a better understanding of who they are, individually and collectively.

LAC acquires, processes, preserves and provides access to our documentary heritage and serves as the continuing memory of the Government of Canada and its institutions.”

Library and Archives Canada

The screenshot shows the Library and Archives Canada website. The header includes the title 'Library and Archives Canada' and the 'Canada' logo. A search bar is located in the top right corner. Below the header, there are four main navigation tabs: 'Discover the Collection', 'Search the Collection', 'Services for the Public', and 'Services and programs'. The 'Search the Collection' tab is selected, and its dropdown menu is open, showing options: 'Collection Search', 'Ancestors search' (circled in red), 'Library search', 'Archives search', 'Genealogy and family history', 'Military heritage', 'Censuses', and 'Research Resources'. A callout box with a red border and a line pointing to the 'Ancestors search' option contains the text: 'Choose "Search the Collection" and "Ancestors search" to find genealogy databases at the national archives'. The main content area includes a 'Home' section with a description of LAC's role, a 'Latest' section with a graphic, and a 'notice' section with a large exclamation mark. Social media links for Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, and others are also visible.

The Changing Shape of Ontario

A Guide to Boundaries, Names and Regional Governments

The political entity we now know as Ontario was originally created in 1791 when it was called Upper Canada. Since that time, in response to population growth and administrative needs, there have been numerous changes to its boundaries, both external and internal. In addition, townships, villages, towns and cities have frequently merged, and counties and districts have re-organized to meet changing needs.

The Archives of Ontario has prepared this guide to provide some background information about changes to Ontario's borders and political composition and includes maps and tables illustrating those changes.

People using records held by the Archives of Ontario can utilize the information in a variety of ways. For example:

- Genealogists researching a mid-19th century marriage may need to know when counties replaced districts in a given geographical area.

202 Research Guide

Most Recent Update:
February 2019

Vital statistics are the official information about important events in human life – births, marriages and deaths – officially registered with the Government of Ontario. This research guide provides information on finding and using province of Ontario vital statistics records.

This guide provides information about the vital statistics records we hold, their contents, and how to access them. For more detailed information, and the resources mentioned in this guide, click here to access our Vital Statistics Webpage (on our Website, this page is located under "Tracing Your Family History").

The Archives holds various other records from government and non-government sources that document births, marriages and deaths in the province. For more information, click here to access Research Guide 204: Sources for Birth, Marriage and Death Records.

Archives of Ontario – Vital Statistics: Birth, Marriage, and Death Registrations

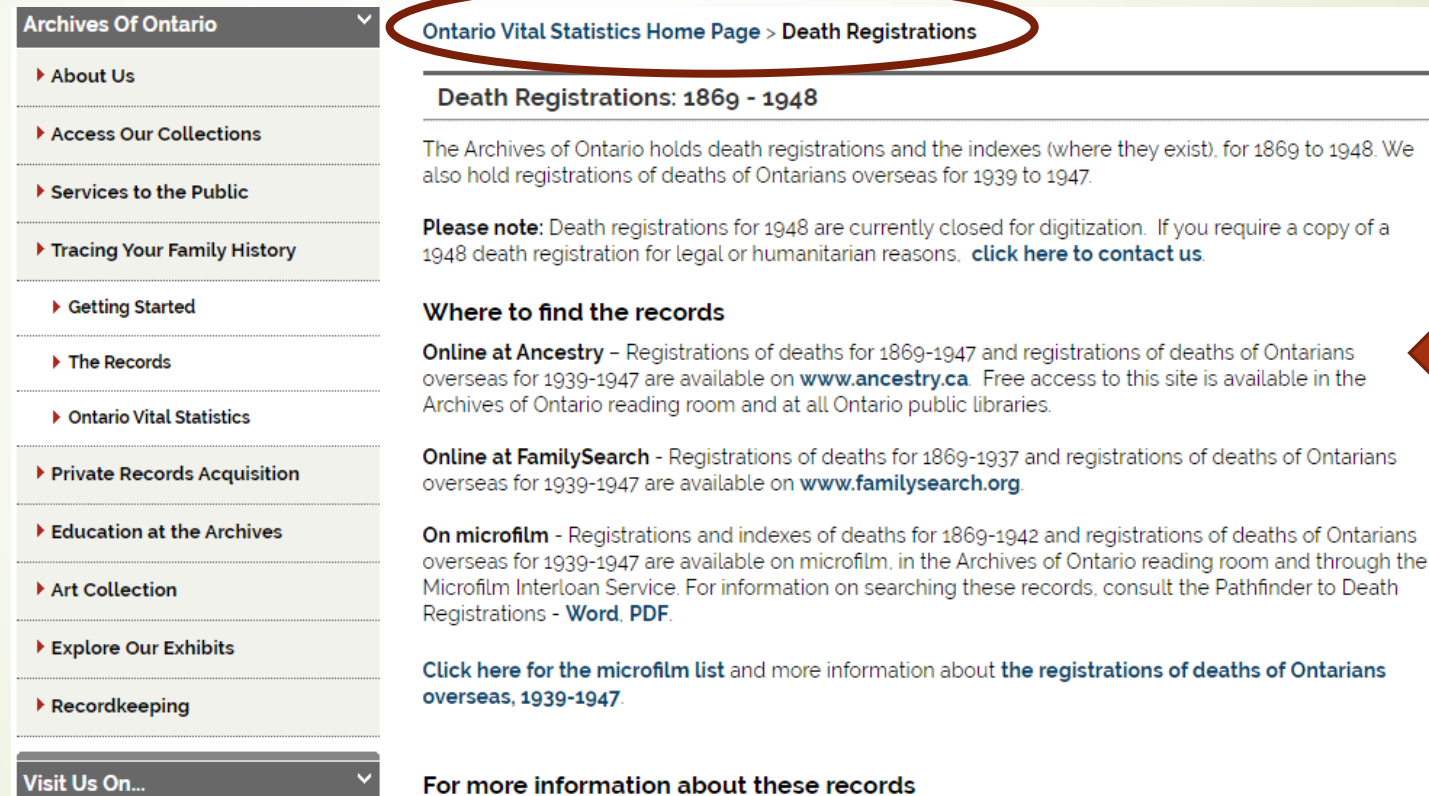

The main content area of the website features a header with the 'Archives of Ontario' logo on the left and 'Ontario Vital Statistics' on the right. Below this is a sub-header: 'Ontario Vital Statistics: Registrations of Births, Marriages and Deaths'. The content is organized into four columns, each with a representative image and a caption: 'Ontario Births' (a newborn baby), 'Ontario Marriages' (a bride and groom), 'Ontario Deaths' (a gravestone), and 'Other Sources' (a metal filing cabinet). Below these columns is a paragraph explaining that the Archives receives records from the Office of the Registrar General of Ontario on an annual basis, containing indexes and registrations for births, marriages, and deaths. It states that access is provided for the following years of vital statistics records:

- Births: [ca. 1830]-1917 predominantly 1869-1917 (Note: these records include registrations for a small number of pre-1869 births)

The screenshot shows the Archives of Ontario website. On the left is a navigation menu with the following items: Archives Of Ontario (dropdown), About Us, Access Our Collections, Services to the Public, Tracing Your Family History, Getting Started, The Records, Ontario Vital Statistics, Private Records Acquisition, Education at the Archives, Art Collection, Explore Our Exhibits, Recordkeeping, and Visit Us On... (dropdown). The main content area is titled 'Ontario Vital Statistics Home Page > Death Registrations', which is circled in red. Below this is a section 'Death Registrations: 1869 - 1948'. The text explains that the Archives hold death registrations and indexes for 1869 to 1948, and also holds registrations of deaths of Ontarians overseas for 1939 to 1947. A 'Please note' section states that death registrations for 1948 are currently closed for digitization and provides a link to contact them. There are three sections titled 'Where to find the records': 'Online at Ancestry' (linking to www.ancestry.ca), 'Online at FamilySearch' (linking to www.familysearch.org), and 'On microfilm' (linking to a microfilm list). A large red arrow points from the right towards the 'Where to find the records' section. At the bottom, there is a link to 'Click here for the microfilm list' and more information about registrations of deaths of Ontarians overseas, 1939-1947. A final line at the bottom says 'For more information about these records'.

About the Toronto Emigrant Office Assisted Immigration Registers

This database is an index to the four volumes of assisted immigration registers created by the Toronto Emigrant Office between 1865 and 1883 (series RG 11-3). The registers are a chronological listing of those new immigrants who were assisted by the government to travel to many different destinations across southern Ontario. Over 29,000 entries have been transcribed from the registers.
