

City Directories

Why Directories Are Useful to Genealogists

- Find out where your ancestors were living between censuses
- Figure out an ancestor's possible dates of arrival and departure
- May be the only way to find an ancestor if they weren't registered to vote, didn't own land, and weren't listed on a particular census
- Find other family members living in the same city
- Information may lead you to other records

History of directory publishing

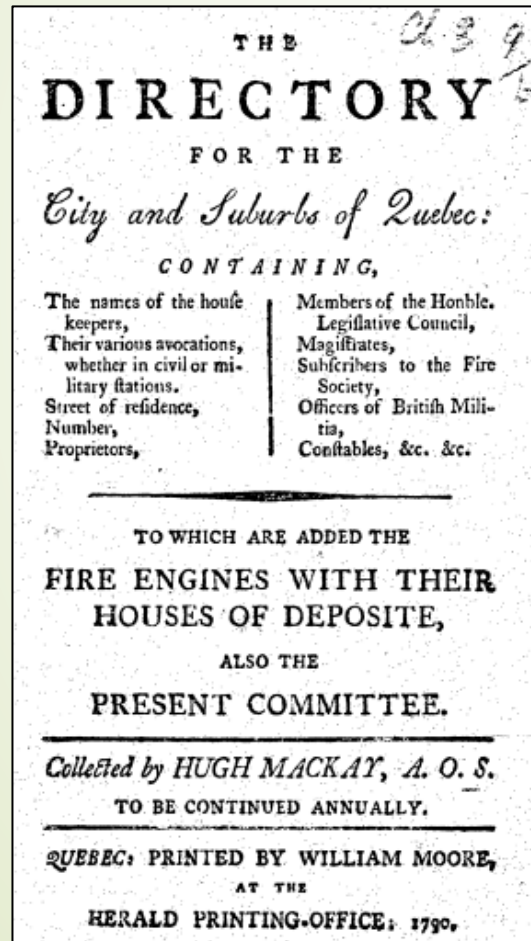

The earliest extant Canadian directories are those for the city of Québec, Directory for the City and Suburbs of Quebec, number I published in 1790 and number II published in 1791. They include an alphabetical list of all males from the city aged sixteen and older. In his introduction to the 1791 directory, the compiler, Hugh MacKay, discussed the purpose of the compilation:

The peace and security of society is in an eminent degree to be ascribed to a good police; and that police can hardly be carried into effect by the Judicial Power, unless a crowded City is arranged, so as to discriminate at one view its inhabitants and their occupations, to detect the receptacles of idleness and vice.¹

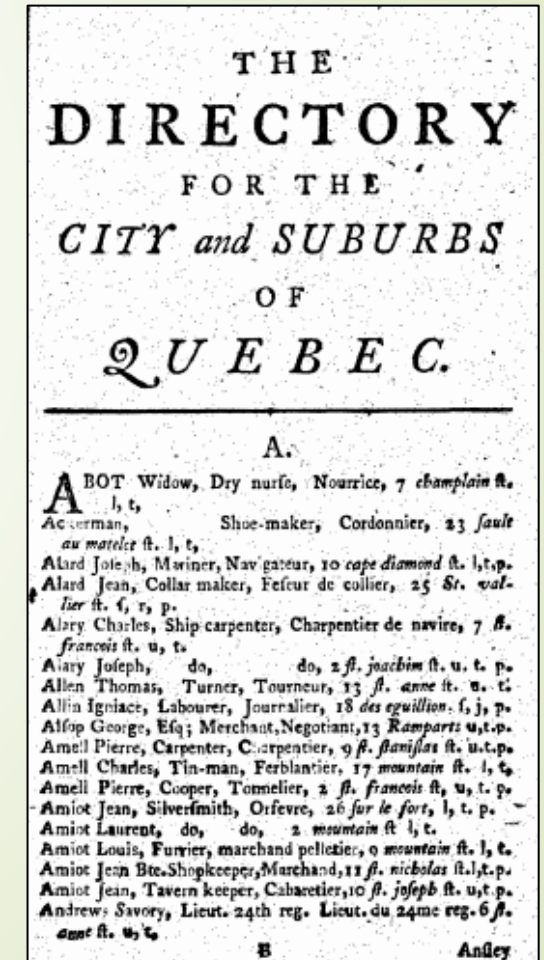

The ordering and displaying of a society is a recurring idea in the history of directory publication, although generally with commercial rather than moral intent. E. Mallandaine, compiler and publisher of the First Victoria Directory in 1860,

Historical Sketch

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

London, a city of Ontario, capital of the county of Middlesex, on the River Thames, 121 miles W. of Toronto, 107 miles E.N.E. of Windsor. It has a fine appearance, the streets are lit with gas and are wide and run at right angles to each other. Upon them are many excellent buildings.

It is the centre of the finest agricultural region of Canada, and a sort of diverging centre of three railways, being the junction of a branch of the Great Western to Sarnia from the main line, the northern terminus of the London and Port Stanley railway, and having a branch of the Grand Trunk from St Marys, connecting it with that line.

London contains 6 branch banks, 2 telegraph agencies, a number of fine hotels, a host of stores, 4 printing offices issuing 3 daily and several weekly newspapers, an exhibition building, a lunatic asylum, orphan asylum, hospital, 9 schools, a convent, 4 colleges (including Huron College, Hellmuth College and Hellmuth Ladies College, three good educational establishments,) and 19 churches (including Church of England and Roman Catholic Cathedrals.) St. Paul's church (church of England) is one of the few in Canada possessing a peal of bells.

The manufactories of London are represented by extensive iron foundries and machine shops, mills, breweries, chemical works, petroleum refineries, tanneries, boot and shoe, soap and candle, musical instrument, cabinet, carriage, and other factories, &c.

The commercial affairs of the city are regulated by a Board of Trade. The city returns 1 member to the House of Commons and 1 to the Provincial Legislature. During the summer months large numbers of invalids and health seekers visit London to enjoy the benefit of its white sulphur springs (famed for their medicinal qualities). London is a port of entry. Total value of imports for 1872 $1,740,850; exports $1,470,263. Pop. in 1852 6,034; 1861 11,555; 1871, 15,826.

Things to Remember...

- Inclusion in a directory was usually voluntary
 - People missed in one directory may be included in the next
 - Names were often misspelled so check for variations
 - If you have an address check the street section for the name
 - Depending on who provided the information it may be incorrect
 - Check for a list of abbreviations to make sure that you are interpreting the information correctly

▼ How to Search the Directories

Locate the year that you wish to search in the panel on the left.

Click on the title of the directory listed under the year that you want. Each directory has a table of contents, click the section you want to search. For example, by clicking: Victoria-Names, you will open up an alphabetical list and you can then click on the appropriate letter in the alphabet for the name that you want.

Navigate from page to page by clicking the <-previous page | next page-> links found at the top and bottom of each scanned image. Or you can go back to the alphabetical list on the the side panel and navigate from there. A word of caution: there are often discrepancies in the directories and some of the entries can be out of order, so be prepared to try several pages.

Printing Tip: The image presented is a jpeg. For a higher resolution image, which is best for printing, use the TIFF option at the top of the scanned page. If you want to print a range of pages use the PDF option also at the top of the page; when choosing a range be sure to indicate the page numbers that you want to print.

Please note: Viewing and printing options may vary depending on the browser that you are using. Firefox often works better than Explorer.

Henderson's Directories: A Directory of Prairie Life

Have you ever wished you had a directory to the past?

The Henderson's Directories contain addresses of citizens and businesses dating as far back as 1905. Historical research for the directories was done by expert staff who gathered information for the various cities and regions by visiting every home and business in person. These agents would secure then name of every person who makes the city his or her home, gathering information about them pertaining to their occupation, business address and residential address.

Kitchener Public Library – Directory Digitization Project

City and county directories have been digitized from 1864 to 1940

The screenshot shows the Kitchener Public Library website. At the top, the logo "Kitchener Public Library" is on the left, and the date "July 08, 2020" and a note about holds pickup are on the right. Below the header is a navigation bar with links: "Books & More", "Programs & Events", "Services & Support", "Volunteering & Giving", "Your Library", and a "Search" button. A breadcrumb trail reads: "Home > Services & Support > Explore > Local History & Genealogy > Directories". On the left is a sidebar menu under the heading "Explore" with links: "85 Green", "Adult Literacy", "Career & Job Search", "English as a Second Language", "Government Documents", "Health & Wellness", "GRRCC Resources", "Languages", and "Local History & Genealogy". The main content area is titled "Directories" and contains the following text: "County and city directories are an excellent resource for researching property ownership, residency, regional growth and development, and the approximate age of buildings on a particular street." Below this is a link "County and City Directories in the GSR" with a PDF icon. Then, under the heading "Abbreviations Used in Directories", it says: "Early directories and atlases often used abbreviations to convey information. We have put together a list of common abbreviations to help you use the directories." This is followed by a link "Abbreviations Used in Directories" with a PDF icon. At the bottom of the main content area is the link "Directory Digitization Project", which is pointed to by a large red arrow from the left. The callout box on the left points to the "Local History & Genealogy" link in the sidebar and the "Directory Digitization Project" link in the main content area.

Directory Digitization Project

With the support of our partners and volunteers, we have recently completed the digitization of Kitchener-Waterloo city and Waterloo County directories from 1864 to 1940. Volumes will be added to this page as they are proofed and optimized. Check back often to see what has been recently added to the digital collection.

The scanned directories on this site are provided for private research and study only. The directory files are optimized for use with Adobe Reader. Due to variances with browser plugins and extensions, directories viewed via web browser may take longer to display.

Tip: When viewing the directories, click the  icon for an interactive table of contents. If viewing in a web browser, Use Ctrl + F to search by keyword.
